HEAVY MAIL FOR MONDAY

Books Advertising Hawaii by the Thousand.

Mainland People Want Party Tours to Be Arranged Here.

Mrs. Nakuina to Write the Next Promotion Book—Favorable Coast Reports.

E. M. Boyd, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, on being asked for the latest information of the bureau's work pointed to a busy staff of young lady assistants putting up advertising matter for the mail going out next Monday.

This output consists of about 4,500 copies of the Pioneer Advertising Co's handbook "Hawaii." Ten mail bags have been furnished by the postoffice for dispatching the lot. There are separate bags for great districts, such as England, New York, Pennsylvania, California, etc.

Mr. Boyd explained that the present distribution was designed as follow-up matter against addresses to which the folder "Hawaii" was formerly sent. It is expected to have other matter to distribute immediately after the first of the year. The next publication to be issued will be a brochure written by Mrs. Emma M. Nakuina, entitled, "Hawaii; the People and Their Legends." As the cutting down of the allowance from the appropriation by 20 per cent means a restriction of the work, there will be a smaller edition of Mrs. Nakuina's work than was at first contemplated.

Besides the lot going off on Monday, about a thousand addresses will be followed up between now and the end of the year. This will complete the current follow-up system, comprising from 5,000 to 7,000 addresses. At the same time there is a steady demand at headquarters in the Alexander Young building for the handbook, the folder, Dr. S. E. Bishop's "Beauty Spots" pamphlet and circular enclosure for letters by private individuals for mailing to friends abroad. The bureau address list for the current campaign takes in hotels, clubs, libraries, schools, members of Congress and of Parliament, and officials of the United States and of different States of the Union.

Letters have reached the committee, Secretary Boyd states, indicating that the auxiliary work on the Pacific Coast is progressing favorably. F. M. Jenifer, the agent appointed for that district, reports having met with a cordial reception from railroad, steamer and hotel men. He has arranged for good office quarters in Los Angeles and hoped to succeed in getting desk room in "Railroad Row" of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. The committee believe that in Mr. Jenifer they have found a capable man for the work on the Coast.

Plans are laid by the committee for the extension of the promotion campaign on the mainland through addressing companies in the great centers. Correspondence has been started with some of these relative to the expense of their services, so that the committee may see what they can do.

The entire work is being carried on as rapidly and as carefully as it has ever been. Although the committee are not receiving quite the degree of financial support they had expected, the work will be pressed as vigorously as ever. They feel that the work has just been inaugurated. Very many letters, personal and otherwise, are being received by the bureau asking for publications, which shows that the railway companies are faithfully doing the work of distribution of the literature sent to them.

Half a dozen letters have been received in the past week asking that arrangements be made for party tours. The writer of one of these letters, is a near relative of a very distinguished general in the United States army. If the efforts that are being made prove successful, Mr. Boyd believes, we shall very soon see the results. While the outcome could not be definitely predicted, these inquiries showed that the committee's campaign was even now arousing great interest.

The headquarters of the Hawaii Promotion Committee are kept attractive with growing plants, besides the exhibits of Hawaiian natural products and handicraft. No transient visitor by a passing steamer should be allowed to depart without at least having been invited into Honolulu's cool parlor in Hotel street.

RICHES FROM THE SEA BOTTOM

Readers have heard of the search undertaken by Greek divers under the Turkish Government and the treasure discovered in the Russian Admiral's ship, sunk at Tcherman at the time of the naval battle of 1770, when the Turkish fleet was completely destroyed.

The search has continued with striking success. These fortunate divers have become rich, but the Turkish Government also has obtained some large amounts, inasmuch as it has reserved for itself the lion's share.

The fact is that the Russian vessel, which sank in a depth of thirty fathoms, abounds in pieces of gold and silver. At first the divers paid attention to the former only, of which they found full sacks. These pieces are mostly single, double and quadruple ducats.

It already has been announced that on the first shipment to Constantinople the divers obtained for their part the sum of 276,000 francs. The daily work of the divers amounts to from 5,000 to 10,000 pieces of gold. A special boat of the admiralty, manned by officers of the Turkish Navy and by a government inspector, is stationed continually at this point. Each sack drawn from the water is registered, the pieces counted and a receipt given to the divers.

It appears that the bottom of the sea is strewn with silver pieces, which have the dimensions and the weight of French crowns of five francs. Besides this money, the divers have drawn up various other precious objects, gold and silver crosses, jewels, images, swords, canes, especially an evangel, of which the binding of gold is ornamented with precious stones of great value.

This is not the first time that such enterprises have been undertaken for the purpose of discovering riches buried in the sea, but they have seldom yielded the desired results. It would be difficult to give even a summary of the innumerable fortunes engulfed. Among others an English bark, which foundered in 1799 off the coast of Holland had on board ingots of gold and silver valued at about thirty millions, of which a very small part was recovered. The Royal Charter went down near the Moelfram with a cargo worth two millions.

The greatest fortune engulfed was in the shipwreck of a French sailing vessel off the coast of Trafalgar. It carried a ton and a half of gold plates and five tons of silver plates whose destination was the famous Cathedral of St. Jean de Malte. There were also a large number of precious stones, designed to embellish some relics contained in the cathedral, as well as to adorn various religious objects belonging to chevaliers of the order and kept by them in their chapel.—Jewellers' Circular.

"If it hadn't been for my drawings," said a young artist to a prominent manufacturer, "your soap would never have been heard of." "That's all very true," said the manufacturer, "but if it had not been for my soap, your pictures would never have been published."—American Soap Journal.

TO PREVENT CROUP, begin in time. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given, all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy as it contains nothing injurious. It always cures and cures quickly. THE RETURN OF HARRIGAN.

Edward Harrigan has come into his own again after many years of eclipse. Time was, when he and Tony Hart were in the Theatre Comique in lower Broadway, that he was a popular idol, praised also by the intellectual authorities, who called him the "Howells of low life." Came the removal to the Park Theatre, and Harrigan seemed to have left a part of his public behind. He built the Garrick, as it is now called, and lost his public altogether. His money fell through his hands like water, and while financial misfortune pressed upon him came the great sorrow of his life, the death of his son just entering upon manhood. For years the man who brought sunshine and laughter to thousands lived in black melancholy, and those who spoke of him shook their heads sadly.

For nearly a decade Edward Harrigan was only a memory. Last season Clyde Fitch persuaded him to play the part of the walking delegate in "The Bird in a Gilded Cage." There was a roar of welcome when Harrigan appeared. And when the humor of him, the exquisite, fine art of him burst upon them, acclaim was wilder than ever.

Thus Harrigan learned that he was not forgotten, that he was still beloved. The result shone in a real Harrigan farce brought down to date, with the survivors of old days grouped about him. Never has a player been received in New York with more enthusiasm, with such honest, hilarious affection. And Mrs. Yeamans, too, was overwhelmed by the audience. So it came about on that first night of "Under Cover" at the Murray Hill Theatre, Harrigan and his old comrade went through the comic scenes with tears of joy running down their cheeks, while scores in the audience wept with them, laughing the while at the irresistible Harrigan fun.—From "The Players" in Everybody's Magazine for December.

Mrs. Hayfork (in country post-office)—"Anything for me?" Postmaster—"I don't see nothin'." Mrs. Hayfork—"I was expectin' a letter or post-card from Aunt Spriggs, tellin' what day she was comin'." Rural postmaster (calling to his wife)—"Did you see a post-card from Mrs. Hayfork's Aunt Sally?" His wife—"Yes; she's comin' on Thursday."—Petoskey Lyre.

Are You the Man You Ought to be?

ARE YOU AS STRONG AS YOU LOOK? OR HAVE YOU WEAK NERVES, FAILING OR LOST VITAL POWER, WASTE OF STRENGTH, VARICOCELE, POOR MEMORY, DULL AND STUPID FEELINGS, LOST AMBITION, WEAK BACK AND GENERAL BREAKING DOWN OF YOUR MANLY POWERS?

You put it on when you go to bed and sleep peacefully under the influence of its warming, vitalizing power. You awake full of ambition, with a healthy desire to tackle your day's work. Each day you gain new life from it, and soon begin to feel yourself a man among men. Each symptom of your trouble gradually disappears, strength takes the place of weakness, and your life is made happy by the restoration of your old health and vigor.

Vital Weakness and Kidney Trouble
HURLTON, Cal.
DR. McLAUGHLIN—Dear Sir: I commenced using your Belt a month ago today and I have nothing but words of praise for the manner in which it has benefited me. I felt the good effects the first night I wore it and it is helping me right along. I have to work pretty hard, but I feel stronger and better than I have for years. If any one had told me that it were possible for me to be so greatly benefited in one month's time I could not have believed them.
Yours truly,
H. H. BROWN, SR.
